I have lived in the village of Brixton for most of my life, I am very settled here with my husband and two children, both of whom were educated in the local primary school and have been supported with employment through the local businesses.

I work as a programme manager within the Health, Care and Education department at City College Plymouth, I am passionate about education for children and young people. In my spare time I enjoy walking and socialising, having a dog enables me to explore our beautiful village on a daily basis and to have time to chat to local people.

I am looking forward to bringing my passion for the village of Brixton to my role as a councillor
